

Scavolini

The video game Tetris served as the stylistic precedent for the bright rectangles and clean, handle-free lines of Michael Young's modular Textrix kitchen. Composed along horizontal axes, rectangular modules measuring 14 by 28¾ inches are topped with Naturalia, a wood-fiber and thermoset-resin composite stronger than laminate. 39-721-4431; scavolini.com. circle 731

Meyda Tiffany

Warning: The trippy colors and sinuous shape of the Tropical fused-glass bowl vessel may induce flashbacks. Blue, yellow, green, and red stripes whirl dizzily in the kiln-fired sink, which measures 4¾ inches tall by 15 wide. 800-222-4009; meyda.com. circle 732

Inax USA

The Regio integrated toilet offers a spalike experience, with soft LED lights illuminating the fixture's bowl and foot—plus music that plays when the automatic lid opens, revealing a heated seat. The air-driven stream-flushing system ensures a powerful yet quiet operation. In Brilliant White and Noble Black. 424-327-1131; inax-usa.com. circle 735

Casalgrande Padana

Meet the future: Bios is one of the manufacturer's innovative ceramic tile lines that utilize antibacterial technology. Inset with silver and other mineral particles that can thwart crafty fungi, the tiles reduce the four most common bacterial strains by 99.9 percent. And they release no toxins so are harmless to humans. 39-52-29901; casalgrandepadana.com. circle 733

New Ravenna

From the mosaic house's new Ikat glass tile collection, Loom takes a cue from the ethnic-patterned fabric. The motif comes in five luminous colorways, each named for—and calling to mind—a shimmery stone, such as quartz, aquamarine, tanzanite, and turquoise. 757-442-3379; newravenna.com.

circle 734

Go to interiordesign.net for an archive of featured products.